

I listen to K-Love radio almost constantly while I'm driving, and my children expect to hear the songs. If it's replaced by an LPFM broadcaster I'll have to simply turn it off. The ministry K-Love stations provide to the local communities they serve is invaluable, and it is incredibly important that we don't lose that. Their Family programming, no need for 7-second delays, encouragement for all listeners, and a plethora of other reasons lead me to say that K-Love stations are in more public interest than the worrisome delivery of news and opinions on NPR!
